

CPNO - Education Committee Hosting the APS BOE Candidates for At-Large District 8 seat on Sept 25th, 2025 at 7:00pm via Zoom

Please join CPNO as we host the three candidates running for Atlanta School Board, At-Large District 8. Register for the Zoom here. Pre-submit questions for the moderators here.

Dr. Kaycee Brock started her career in education in 2007 as a first-grade teacher. Throughout her time in schools, she served as a sixth-grade teacher, college counseling program director, district-level college coach, and high school assistant principal. Over the past ten years, Dr. Brock has accumulated extensive experience with building and leading college and career readiness programs for schools and networks. She enjoys finding creative ways to infuse college and career readiness into existing systems and programs.

Dr. Brock attended Florida State University for her undergraduate degree, and she earned her doctorate from Johns Hopkins University. Her research focused on early college access opportunities for high school students from underrepresented backgrounds. If you ask her colleagues what sets her apart, they would say that she is high-spirited, cares deeply about building relationships with students and families. In her spare time, Kaycee likes to travel, spend time with family, and play tennis with her teammates. <https://www.brockforatlanta.com/>

Royce Mann is a native Atlantan, proud alumnus of Grady/Midtown High School, and longtime resident of Lake Claire. He holds a B.A. in Political Science from Emory University. An experienced community organizer and nonprofit advocate, Royce has worked at the local, state, and federal level on issues including gun violence prevention and educational equity. He previously served on the Grady High School GO-Team, was a member of the APS LGBTQIA+ Taskforce, and worked as a Policy Intern for the Board of Education. If elected, he will be the youngest person to ever hold citywide office in Atlanta, though only by several months. <https://royceforatl.com/>

Aisha Allen Stith is a corporate communications professional who has served in numerous volunteer positions at Atlanta Public Schools, including the GO Team, countless Executive PTA/PTO Chair positions, and as the bilingual parent liaison at David T. Howard. Aisha has a deep love for this city and the amazing communities within it. She intends to shed light on issues that are often challenging to face. She is the proud parent of three APS students and is an alumna of North Atlanta High School. <https://www.aas4aps.com/>